

Value statement:

Good leadership is all about love. Love for yourself through personal growth and love for others through the community you build. To facilitate this growth you need to have passion, be open to helping yourself and those around you, and prioritizing everyone's health to help everyone achieve their dreams.

LPV:

I stand on the shoulder of giants who have helped me develop into the person I am today, and I want to be the new shoulders for others to stand on. Helping people grow and thrive is an honor, and to be a leader that can uplift myself and those around me is fundamental to being a great leader.

Reflections

The Newton Fellows was an incredible opportunity for me to reflect on my leadership style and wrestle with the question, "what does it mean to be a leaders". The program introduced me to a diverse group of incredible leaders on campus that challenged my vision of what I thought a good leader was. Experiencing so many perspectives and being inspired by the other fellows is something I will value for the rest of my life. The leadership team gave us a lot of opportunities to meet other leaders in the community, and gain some insight from them and their successes. The program was a great opportunity for me to be inspired by those around me, which I think is a great characteristic for a leader.
